A GOOD BULL IS "HALF THE HERD"

The quality of your whole herd can be raised, with profit to you, by careful breeding with a well-bred bull. The same principle applies with every kind of livestock.

Realizing the importance of good male animals, you may wish to purchase superior individuals but lack the cash to do so. Under such circumstances, the wise course is to discuss a loan for the purpose with your local bank manager. The Royal Bank of Canada is constantly making loans to farmers for this and many other productive purposes. If you have your eye on some desirable animal and need cash to make an advantageous "buy," talk your proposition over with the manager of our nearest branch.

Some Increase Farm Machinery Is Predicted

Although material shortage still restrict unlimited production of farm machinery, H.W. Gallup, Police Board deputy administrator of farm and construction machinery told Northern Alberta Implement Dealers, here, the output for 1964 can be estimated at 105 percent of the tonnage to Canadian farmers in 1964.

Mr. Gallup stated that lack of manpower and classes of materials such as sheet steel, as well as shortage of component parts, limits production of farm machinery. He said shortage of malleable castings brought about entirely by lack of labour in the foundries is eating into the most serious bottlenecks in implement production today.

Following the end of war in Europe, implement industry will face a period of conversion from war to peacetime production, in producing new toolage and machine tools, he said.

Mr. Gallup stated that needs of Canadian farmers will have most consideration, but pointed out Canada's commitments to liberalized countries of Europe and Empire countries. Rehabilitation of returned veterans will also have to be cared for, Mr. Gallup announced.

Noting that the Prices Board policy is to lift restrictions on civilian goods wherever possible,

Mr. Gallup said that an improvement in production of malleable castings and an increase in manpower will be required to enlarge output of farm machinery.

Used Car Dealer loses License

Shep Kaplan has lost his license to sell used cars through action of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board taken against Kaplan following his sixth fine for breaking price ceiling regulations on used cars.

Kaplan paid almost $1000, including the fine and refund to the purchaser for selling a 1957 Ford Coupe over Prices Board ceiling after court trial on October 27.

Cancellation of Kaplan's license to conduct used car business after repeated violation of regulations, is the first action of its kind taken by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Alberta against used car dealers.

With prosecutions in Alberta courts for the week ending Nov. 17 included Charles E. Butz Edmonton who was fined $25 for illegal purchase of anti-freeze, Andrew Ambroch fined $10 and cost for transferring gasoline ration coupon book and S. Romanuk who paid $25 and costs for charging excessive rental.

A high powered rifle which went off and drove a bullet through the lower part of his foot. He is progressing favorably.

Alvin Anderson, a member of another hunting party shot a deer and went off by himself to dress it and drag it to camp. Unfortunately he got twisted in his directions and became lost. Very lightly clad he was in no shape to spend the night in the cold, but was forced to do so. The new fall of snow made his feet and clothing wet. The rifle shot from his alarmed companions did not reach his ears. Finally the party turned in a general alarm and a thorough search was planned. A ranger located him at the break of day and hurried him back to camp. He suffered no ill effects from exposure. Neither Anderson nor his companions were able to locate the deer he had shot.

TO MEND A THREE CORNERED TEAR

Use an overhand patch for a tear like this. It is not as strong as a hemmed patch but it is less conspicuous. Cut the tear in the fabric to a square or an oblong. Turn back the edges. Cut the patch slightly larger. Fit the patch exactly into the hole with its edges turned back as in the lower sketch. All the sewing is done on the wrong side of the garment. Overhand the patch in place with tiny stitches, as shown on the wrong side. Overcast raw edges and press well. If the patching is carefully done, if thread and design of the patch are both matched with the garment, it is scarcely noticeable.

The little guy with the arrows—called Cupid—has had a big war-time job with the services. There have been more than 25,000 British girls married to Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen so far, and marriages continue at the rate of 500 to 600 weekly, according to reports. Since 1943 Canada has paid the cost of moving these brides and their children across the Atlantic, and last month 2,236 British wives and 1,328 children have been brought over; 21,500 wives and 8,500 children are still in Britain, and thousands are on the waiting list to move across. Canadian service marriages to date are listed as follows: Navy 2,800; Fire Fighters 15; Army 10,101; Air Force 2,500. The Canadian government has a "Canadian Wives Bureau" in London to arrange passage, etc.

How is the returning veteran being placed at this time? Affairs released by the Veterans' Affairs Department in Ottawa show that during September 1,810 ex-service men received benefits under the re-establishment order providing maintenance grants. A total of 181,246 was expended that month. During the same period 8,741 veterans were placed in employment through National Selective Service. Jobs were also found for 3,143 veterans of World War I. A total to date of 257,004 veterans have been placed in this manner.

The war years have seen much interesting industrial development in Canada. Among the new projects is the manufacture of optical glass. Before the war, most of the world's optical glass was produced in England, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Germany. Today, the highly ground and polished glass used for telescopes range finders and other high precision fire control instruments, is made right in Canada.

An interesting Army story says that "Thanks to penicillin, Canadian Army surgeons can now make bone grafts of a nature which would have been impossible during 1914-18." Also, because of the miraculous action of this drug in countering infection, they can begin their exciting work many months earlier than would have been possible during World War I. At that time no plastic surgeon in his right mind would have attempted to perform a bone graft for at least six months after the wounds had completely healed. That is no longer necessary today. We mention this only to show how our lads are being looked after these days.

Canada's birth rate since the outbreak of war increased from 2.8 per 1,000 of population in the port where it was 2.6 in 1943. Statistics, All provinces shared in the general increase, Quebec is shown with the highest birth rate 2.8 per 1,000 population with New Brunswick lagging along in second

The KIDS ARE CERTAINLY Tough SHOES.

1,300,000 MORE PAIRS
OF CHILDREN'S SHOES LAST YEAR

In the last twelve months Canadian manufacturers made for Canadian children about 25% more shoes than in 1933—a fine job—done by the organization and direction of production by this Board's Footwear Administration and the co-operation of manufacturers. And this was accomplished while they were making more essential type shoes for war workers, who wear out their shoes faster than they do in their normal employment.

THE DISAPPEARING ACT OF RUBBER-SOLE SHOES

In normal times most young Canadians got at least one pair of rubber-soled, canvas-top shoes a year. But natural rubber supplies fell into enemy hands, and the manufacture of rubber footwear was drastically curtailed. We're now using reclaimed and synthetic rubber in these shoes—there have been more of them this year than there will be next year. Leather-soled shoes have had to be used in place of this rubber-soled footwear but shoes made of leather need more care than running shoes. When they don't get it they wear out more quickly; when they get it they must be dried slowly, away from direct heat—and they should be grained also. It's not always a case of poor quality; it's poor care.

LEATHER GOES TO WAR

You've got to have good strong leather for children's shoes, but the soldiers are taking most of ours for their boots. For these leather a substantial portion of the hides came from South America and other countries. War cut down these imports and there have been difficulties in getting enough of these and our own hides tanned into leather due to shortages of workers. The production of high grade leather shoes has, however, been maintained at the highest level consistent with the labour and materials available. While shoe factories have been working overtime, factory capacity for civilian shoes cannot be expanded in wartime and it's not possible to change plants from the manufacture of one type of shoe to another—for instance, from women's to children's. The processes, the machines and the last are different.

TURNING HIDES INTO SHOES

There are very large war uses of leather—for instance, in footwear. A soldier requires four pairs of shoes in the first year of his service and about three pairs per year thereafter. But, what is more important, he needs to have his shoes re-soled four or five times a year. His shoes are of the highest quality leathers obtainable, leaving the other half of leather for civilian use. Airmen need leather for jackets and mitts. War factories need leather for belting and farmers need leather for harness. Leather—the best leathers—has gone to war.
